The pigtailed goalkicker

At the age of four, Gayle Tucker has already developed a good style for kicking a football.

Gayle was showing the little boys how it's done at the Altona Baptist Play Centre last Thursday.

Tanker driver hurt in crash

A transport driver received severe leg injuries on Tuesday morning, in a collision between his tanker and a fire truck at the intersection of Kororoit Creek Road and Millers Road.

The injured man is Mr. Keith David Toy, of Finley Road, Altona, was not hurt.

The accident occurred at 9.10 a.m. The driver of the fire truck, Mr. Karl Anderson, General Hospital.

DARREN BROUGHT FROM SHADOWS

A family in Bunting Crt., Nth. Altona, is waiting for a real battler to come home.

He makes 21½ inches at full stretch and tips the scales at 6 pounds 15 ounces.

And Darren Lane has just won a fight for his life in the Western General Hospital.

The verdict this week from happy doctors: "He's on the way to recovery."

Darren stopped breathing four times after he was born on May 28.

Each time doctors Jennifer Ault and Robert Young revived him.

This week Dr. Young said Dr. Ault stayed on duty 24 hours, straight to care for the baby.

Critical hours

He was given tube injections of sugar sodium bicarbonate and calcium — sugar to increase the supply of energy to his bloodstream, bicarbonate to reduce his acid level and the calcium to normalise his nervous system.

Dr. Young said the first 24 hours of Darren's life were critical.

"Each time he stopped breathing we knew we only had seconds to revive him before his heart stopped," he said.

"Fortunately, he responded."

Darren (full name Darren Alfred) still has a fair bit of time in hospital although doctors expect him to leave his humidicrib soon.

After that it will be off home to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Syd Lane, and his brothers and sisters, Alan 12, Susan 11, Vickie 5, and Deborah 3.

They'll dance for hours

Tickets are available for this year's Altona Mayoral Ball at Shirley Park Reception, Altona North, on Friday, July 6.

The Denis Farrington Band and guest singer, Junewyn Jones, will entertain.

Cocktails will be served at 7.30 p.m. Dancing is from 8.45 p.m. to 1.30 a.m. Tickets at $17 a double (all inclusive) are available from the ticket secretary, Mrs. Lois Wilson, 398 2244.

Proceeds of the ball will go to the Altona District Hospital.

FUN OUT OF FISH SHOPS

Altona acts on those machines

Altona Council is clamping down on fish-shop proprietors who have amusement machines.

Recently, the council's senior health inspector, Mr. E. J. Mifsud, visited two Altona North fish shops. Both had fun parlor machines that were not registered.

He told a Ross Road shop man that the council would not re-register his shop as a food premises until he removed the machines.

He was also told that legal action may be taken against him. He removed the machines.

The council also warned a Millers Road proprietor legal action is being taken.

Reporting to a recent meeting of the council, Mr. Mifsud said he visited the Millers Road premises and found one machine still in the shop. It was not connected to the power supply.

Mr. Mifsud said the proprietor told him he had instructed the owner of the machine to move it and he was waiting for him to do so.

"However, I feel that the proprietor has had ample time to comply with the notice and he failed to do so," Mr. Mifsud said.

Sub-standard buildings

He also reported to the council that he had told the proprietor of a milk bar in Second Avenue, Altona North, that council would not re-register his premises until sub-standard buildings had been removed.

On another inspection he found that his orders had been carried out although the proprietor had still to remove building refuse and other building materials from the premises and move the wash basin.

The council deferred registration of the premises. The proprietor was granted a further 21 days to move the basin.

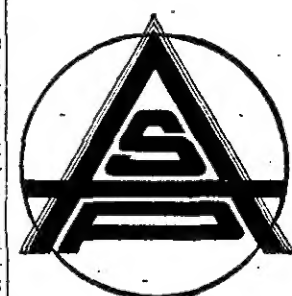

Professor for unity service

Altona Council of Churches will sponsor an inter-church service at St. Eanswythes Church of England, on Pentecost Sunday, June 10.

Guest preacher will be the Rev. Professor N. J. Young of Queens College, University of Melbourne.

The council president, Mrs. Pat Baines, will welcome visitors. Clergy men will take part in the service.

June 10 marks the end of 1973 Week of Prayer for Christian unity, observed by Christians throughout the world.

SWAN LAKE

... on Murky Kororoit Creek

We're all creatures of habit, especially in the business of ... well ... mating. And black swans are like the rest of us.

Although their urges seem out of season, two graceful birds fly into the western suburbs at this time every year and raise a family.

And, of all places, near the windswept banks of murky Kororoit Creek.

They search out a well-hidden mound just beside Millers Road, Altona and gather branches and vegetation to set up house.

The female lays her clutch of pale green eggs, and both attend to the hatching.

Women's libbers will be interested to know that Mr. Swan shares child-rearing tasks with Mrs. Swan.

In about 40 days the brood will hatch.

Parents Swan will wait until their cygnets can look after themselves before flying off.

Altona's Mayor, Cr. Harry Weaver, welcomes the swans back to his city.

"We are sure they are the same pair, because they return to the same spot year after year," he says.

The curator of birds at the National Museum of Victoria, Mr. A. R. McEvey, doesn't rule out a lifelong love affair.

"Some species of swan mate for life and return to the same spot to nest, but this has not been so far proved with black swans," he says.

Usually, he adds, black swans mate in the summer.

Meanwhile, the parents continue to grace Altona's Swanlake.

Val's Column

Hello Girls,

You must think of make-up as an art of what's possible. It's impossible for you to look like someone else, so don't try to.

But it is possible — and so down-right easy — to make yourself look a whole lot prettier, modern, younger, by playing up your good points and playing down your not-so-good.

And don't try to smother away imperfections. Accentuate the positive and the negative will take care of itself — quite nicely.

Firstly, your skin condition is important. Not looking or feeling oily, or too dry. How about your skin colouring. This is so noticeable as we lose our summer warmth.

Your hair colouring — and highlighting can help keep a healthy face colouring looking its best.

Now face shaping.

Take a look in your mirror. What is your shaping? Oval? Good, you're lucky this is the shape the rest of us are aiming for.

What if yours is round, heart shape — or square? Now, with your lighter winter foundation color, and your deeper summer foundation color in front of you.

Try applying the darker colour on those fatter, or squarer edges, on that pointed nose or chin.

Or if you want to make the most of some narrow area, again chin, nose or forehead, apply a paler colour to these parts to pronounce them.

Now smooth over your normal colour. See a difference.

Get out your blusher — rouge — now, and to have a frosted of the same colour, or a white one as well is handy.

Colour high and wide on your cheekbones. What does a little blush do if you dab a little to your skin, or forehead? Good. That looks better doesn't it?

GOOD SHEPHERD 40 YEARS ON JOB

Mrs. Ivy McGowan has spent more than 40 years among children but she works on at the Altona Baptist Play Centre as if she were new to the job.

The play centre opened in 1944 and was among the first in Altona.

Mrs. McGowan can look back: "I had some of their mothers and fathers at children to look after. It makes me feel old."

Mrs. McGowan has a simple approach to children.

"I think you should take time to listen," she says.

"A play centre is their first introduction to the outside world and it's important to understand them, to love them."

The children at the centre seem a happy lot, sharing their experiences with her from time to time — such things as a well-turned-out sand castle or an approaching birthday.

And Mrs. McGowan always has time to listen, to encourage, to soothe hurt feelings after the inevitable tiff.

Mrs. McGowan, who came to Altona in 1922 gets only a nominal salary or working at the play centre. She says she would work for less.

Children come to the centre four days a week from 9.15 a.m. to noon and their parents pay $1 a week.

Mrs. McGowan, a Sunday school teacher, says children have a satisfying time at the centre, but she gives credit to the church for starting it.

Mrs. McGowan plays with children at the Altona Baptist Play Centre. They're a happy lot ... Mrs. McGowan doesn't believe in punishment. A stern look is usually sufficient.

CAROLINE — A GOOD PLAY PERFORMED WELL

A good play and a good performance — those are the basic ingredients of an entertaining evening, well-spent, at the theatre.

—says Telmar

However the two things mentioned don't always go together and we are treated to either the one or the other.

It was therefore most refreshing to be present at the Altona City Youth Theatre production of Caroline during its recent season at the Richard McGill Memorial Hall when we saw an excellent performance of a play with its own intrinsic merit.

Caroline Chisholm, "the little old lady in the bonnet and shawl" was brought powerfully to life by Audrey Simpson.

History reveals Caroline Chisholm as a person possessing another rare combination of qualities; dynamism in her life's work as she saw it and rare human compassion.

Audrey Simpson brought both of these to her role.

At first I was somewhat surprised at the forcefulness of Audrey's interpretation of the character but soon this talented young actress had me completely convinced that this was the right way to approach her task.

She possesses a very fine voice which added just that further touch of excellence to her performance.

I was also impressed by Phillip Tyrell who played the role of Caroline's old opponent John Dunmore Lang. His, too, was a remarkable performance.

The power of his Scottish brogue is still ringing in my ears and his outraged visage and piercing stares are still implanted in my memory.

Tony Ryeland, as Archibald Chisholm and Stephen Chatfield, as Tom Shepherd both provided the depth and strength that must come from supporting roles if any performance is to be considered successful.

The virtue of depth of support could also be illustrated by reference to the good efforts turned in by Julie Findlay, as Flora and Gail Poole, as Ann Shepherd.

Of these players Stephen Chatfield was possible the most convincing.

The chorus work of ACYT continues to be of a good standard with strength provided by both males and females where necessary.

Initially, I felt that the use of microphones was going to distort the vocal efforts of the choruses but this problem was soon overcome.

Sets were nothing out of the ordinary but did the job well. Lighting and costume were good, while the music, under the direction of Michael Downes was delightful.

The program of the show came in interesting form, resembling a period document and this went down well with the patrons.

I wonder, though, whether any others shared my frustration at the absence of a list of musical numbers and cast members who sang them.

If you missed Caroline, produced by Grahame Murphy, you missed a play, about which we will hear more, and an excellent performance.

Extra kinder sessions at Seaholme

The introduction of additional sessions at Seaholme kindergarten this month, will raise to 475, the number of Altona children receiving free kindergarten supervision.

The two additional sessions will be held on Wednesday and Friday afternoons, commencing on Wednesday, June 20.

Earlier this year, Altona Council introduced similar additional sessions at the Lindwood Avenue Kindergarten in Altona West.

Council has increased the activities of the Seaholme kindergarten to absorb the waiting list of children in Seaholme.

In addition to the eight kindergartens in Altona council also contributes funds to the Brooklyn kindergarten, which is over the municipal border in the City of Sunshine.

Some 20 Altona children attend this kindergarten and vacancies exist for more children.

METHODISTS LOSE ALL THEIR GAMES

It was black Saturday for the Methodist footballers. All their teams lost.

West Newport inflicted one of the biggest defeats the senior Methodist team can remember.

Scores: West Newport 38-31. Williamstown 11-7.

Goalkeepers: Serong 2, Humphries 2, Smith 2, Russell 2, Temby 1, Powley 1, Gregory 1.

'Town again bat badly

Williamstown Baseball Club's senior team again played badly at the week-end and lost 7-0 to Port Melbourne.

Port's pitching, although hard to get away, could not account for the complete lack of form of the Williamstown batting line up.

The seconds, gave a good display of pressure baseball from the first dig and had a convincing 7-4 win.

Highlight of the game was a fine home run by first sacker Alan Kineard.

Allan Harriss made a timely return to the club.

Best players were A. Kineard, B. Johns and A. Harriss.

The thirds slipped back a little but despite some ragged fielding, they managed to remain undefeated with a 7-8 win over Port.

The inexperienced Port side allowed 'Town to get away with some foolish errors and the temperament of some players left a lot to be desired.

Best players were R. Warnicki and Ron Massey.

Under 13s

The under 13 team is now shaping better, having won its last two games and completed the round with four wins out of seven games.

The battery is combining well and Harriss to McVeigh will be a worry to most batters in the finals.

First baseman Sturrock had an unassisted double play and is also hitting the ball well. Older players should note the improvement in young Homewood and, perhaps, try to emulate his efforts.

WHY DON'T MIGRANTS INTEGRATE?

Nick is 26. He is polite, dresses neatly and tries hard to make friends. But sometimes he feels like a social outcast.

He would like to get married, but in the few years he has been in Australia, he hasn't saved much money. And before he can hope to find a wife, he must build up some security.

In many ways Nick is lucky. He has a good job and he boards with a friendly Australian family, who help him speak good English.

At work he sees thousands of people every day, but most of the time he is lonely.

During the four years he has lived in Footscray the only friends he has made are Greek, like himself.

Sometimes he wonders if he'll ever make an Australian friend...

People from service clubs, such as the Lions, often see New Australians with Nick's problem and wonder how to help them.

Mr. Charles Trickey, president of the Altona Lions Club, says the problem is that migrants often don't know about the people who want to help them, such as Good Neighbor counselors.

"The language barrier also prevents them from mixing with Australians", Mr. Trickey said. "However, they have to make a bit of effort too," he said. "We have language classes here, but only a few of them turn up. We can't do everything for them."

"But I realise there are more men than women in the migrant population. They should bring out more girls..."

Mr. Kas Jurga, Good Neighbor counselor, of Altona, says he encourages New Australians to make friends with Australians.

"We always talk about integration. We say, go try to mix with Australians, don't be frightened."

"But integration comes through socialising. The foreman or the mates of a New Australian ask him to meet them at the pub and he doesn't go. In Europe, going to the pub is frowned on, it's not a place for socialising. So he is ashamed to be seen there."

DIFFERENT

"For those under the age of 20, there are youth clubs, sporting clubs are for those between 20-25, but we have few clubs for the over 25s, in the Western Suburbs."

One of the Fathers at the Altona Catholic Church agrees that facilities for New Australians are inadequate.

"They have different interests from us," he said.

"In helping them, we should consider what appeals to them, not what we think they need."

The priest said migrants, who live alone have little chance of finding a suitable partner.

"I think marriage depends on a person's connections. Where certain groups of families live together, they have a broader field of contact."

New Australians who need advice or assistance could ring the counselors at the Good Neighbor House, phone 30 2421.

Their address is 575 Elizabeth Street, Melbourne.

Newport house sells for $22,500

A brick veneer four roomed house sold for $22,500 at the weekend.

The house is situated at 111 North Street, Newport, on land 40 ft. by 110 ft.

Agents were A. Gordon Allard and Co., with Compton and Green Pty. Ltd.

Other houses sold in the district included three self-contained units, on land 40 ft. by 120 ft., at 19 White Street, Williamstown, which went for $18,200. Agents, Barlow and Son.

And a five-roomed timbered house which was sold before auction by John Jontek and Son Pty. Ltd.

This house, on land 50 ft. by 140 ft., at 40 Hansen Street, Newport, sold for $14,500.

Youth speaks

The Altona-Williamstown district final in a public speaking contest for secondary school children will be held at the Williamstown Technical School Assembly Hall on Wednesday, June 13.

The contest is conducted by the Victorian State Jaycees 1973.

Contestants and their schools are:

Frances Skrezenek, Mount St. Joseph's College; Angelika Weiss, Point Gellibrand High School; Diane Robinson, Altona High School; Robin Hogan, Williamstown Technical School; Shane O'Brien, St. Paul's College.

Topic of the public speaking contest is "Youth for Australia" and the general public is invited to attend.

The bride is the former Miss Janet Lee, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Lee, of Bell Avenue, Altona.

The groom is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Churchill of Queen's Street, Altona.

Bridesmaids were Miss Dianne Churchill, Miss Pauline Scaff and Miss Christine James.

The best man was Mr. Ken Churchill and the groomsmen were Mr. John Dennett and Mr. David Lee.
